MARK WALTON (SYD)

The story so far...we got thru 2008 with most of our body parts still intact but quite frankly 2009 could not come quickly enough! We learned some hard lessons but we are much wiser for them and so it is with optimism and determination to keep shit real that we approach the year ahead. The Syrup will be back in all it's glory of course and this little holiday issue is just to keep u in the loop with what we have in store for january with regard to deejays and artists. Saturday nights are getting a kickstart with local national and international talent performing in the club including a live set from The Swiss before Tony Mittolo heads back to the UK to resume his duties with PNAU. Mark Walton drops in from Sydney on the 24th and will hang around to warm you up before the Idjut Boys take over on the Sunday night of the Australia Day Weekend, That will be a night not to be missed. Cloak n Dagga's art exhibition opens on the 8th of January because as u probably know we always open the art on the first Thursday of the month but of course the first Thursday of the month is the 1st of January this year and no-one wants to do anything on that day except go to a festival or find a way to hide from the world with a massive hangover to keep them company. We will be open New year's Night so pop in after the shores or after blake's big gig up the road...never fear, we will be here like we always are, 7 days a week, 9 til late, I see u on the dancefloor. xxx
